Public Health Core Competencies in BC Project Self Assessment Competency tool for Community Capacity-Building

Introduction:

The overall aim of the Public Health Association of BC's (PHABC) Project on Core Competencies in Public Health is to contribute to ensuring that the public health workforce in BC has the appropriate competencies for the delivery of public health core programs. This project is funded by the BC Ministry of Health and the Public Health Agency of Canada and has an advisory committee with representatives from PHABC, the two funding agencies, the health authorities and the academic sector.

In Phase 1 of this project, the core competencies identified in the Core Competencies for Public Health in Canada: Release 1.0 (http://www.phac-aspc.gc.ca/ccph-cesp/pdfs/zcard-eng.pdf) were assessed and found to be relevant to implementing the core public health programs in BC. In addition, the consultation process identified a number of core competencies for public health that could be enhanced as well a number of competency gaps where training is needed. For example, Community Capacity building was identified as a competency area for which there is a training need. (See Phase 1 Report http://www.phabc.org/files/headlines/Final Report Core and Technical Competencies 08.pdf)

As part of Phase 2, PHABC is implementing a pilot project to develop and test a collaborative process for identifying and responding to the educational and training needs of staff and managers currently employed in the public health sector in BC. The tools and processes being developed are intended to enhance understanding of the existing skills and training needs of current staff in the public health core competency areas, and can be assessed at a regional level or provincewide. The focus is on professional development for current staff rather than entry to practice.

The assessment tool is intended to measure an employee's self assessed understanding of skill level and gaps in specific competency areas for the purpose of identifying and developing a training/education response to meet professional development needs. This tool has been developed to be tested in one competency area — Community Capacity-building - with the intent that it be adapted for broader use in other competency areas. Please enter the security code you received by email to begin the survey.

Definition of Community –Community can refer to a group of individuals with a common interest or in a common setting, a population group, or a geographic area.

Definition of Community Capacity-building: There are numerous definitions of community capacity-building that are all slightly different but the main elements are very similar. The common features have been incorporated into the following definition which will be used for the purpose of this project. Community capacity-building is being viewed within the context of the evolving public health sector and the increased emphasis on population health and the social determinants of health.

Community capacity-building as a competency in public health is defined as:

The ability to enhance the skills, abilities, resources, and commitment of communities and their members to care for each other, nurture unique talents and leadership, and act on challenges and opportunities the community faces. As a result, individuals and groups increase their ability to impact their health and the health of their communities in a positive and sustainable manner.
