July 5-6th, 2018

Drawing practitioners of public health from all over the province, PHABC's annual Summer School is British Columbia's leading forum for inspiration, sharing, and learning on public health and health equity at the individual, health care system, and community levels.

Join us for our 9th annual PHABC Summer School on July 5-6th, 2018 as we explore the theme "The Public Health Approach: Building Safe and Inclusive Communities."

Main Sites

University of Victoria, University of British Columbia, University of British Columbia Okanagan, University of Northern British Columbia

Online Registration is now open at http://phabc.org/2018-summer-school-registration/

We welcome participants who are working directly or indirectly on public health issues & health promoting activities across our province, including but not limited to:

- Frontline Health Providers
- Municipal Council Members
- Program & Project Planners
- Health Educators & Community Health Workers
- Recreation Practitioners
- Academics & Researchers
- Policy Analysts
- Graduate & Medical Students

Why attend?

This two-day summer school is a unique collaboration of keynote presentations, case studies and hands on workshops that will explore safe and inclusive communities; how to build them, what they look like and how the public health force can foster safe and inclusive environments.

The PHABC Summer School provides the opportunity for professionals throughout the province to meet, mingle and learn during discussion groups on site as well as across sites through UBC Video Technologies.
