Child and Youth Mental Health (CYMH) Clinician
$88,130.18 - $100,562.25 annually, which includes a 4 Grid Market Adjustment

North Fraser's Child and Youth Mental Health (CYMH) teams are passionate, community-focused professionals who deliver mental health services in fast-paced and diverse urban environments. We work alongside school districts, health partners, and Indigenous service providers to offer responsive and coordinated care for children and youth experiencing mental health challenges. Our team culture is grounded in mutual respect, clinical excellence, and a strong belief in collaboration—both within our teams and with our partners.

As a CYMH Clinician, you'll support the mental wellness of children, youth, and families through direct clinical services such as intake, assessment, treatment, suicide risk assessment, safety planning, and crisis intervention for ages 0–18. Working flexibly across homes, schools, communities, and offices, you'll collaborate with professionals including educators, healthcare providers, Indigenous service organizations, and community agencies to deliver holistic care. This role is ideal for those who value meaningful client relationships, teamwork, and lifelong learning. To learn more about the role and what it's like to be part of our CYMH teams, we invite you to watch our short Child and Youth Mental Health video.

Qualifications for this role include:

- Master's degree in counselling, social work, educational counselling, clinical counselling, clinical psychology or child and youth care or comparable graduate degree at the master's level in a similar subject may be considered.
- Minimum of one (1) year full-time equivalent experience working with children and youth and their families, with responsibility for providing a wide range of community based mental health services.

Preference may be given to applicants with the following:

- Applicants with 2+ years of experience working with children and youth and their families, with responsibility for providing a wide range of community based mental health services.
- Applicants who self-identify as having an Indigenous heritage (First Nations, Métis, or Inuit) with the required combination of education and experience.
